Provided expert real estate legal advice for Quest's purchases and leases. Raised Quest awareness within the community with introductions to high profile food suppliers and donors. Provided volunteers from the law firm to campaign for Vancity's $1M grant. Quest won the $1M grant.

Patrick Beirne – Secretary or Director at Large

Patrick Beirne is currently the Secretary for Quest and has served on the Board since 2003. He is a lawyer practising strictly criminal law both privately and for the Crown. He first became involved with Quest, peeling potatoes etc. when Quest ran a soup kitchen out of the St. James church in Gastown near his office. He was asked to be a Director and have been so for over 20 years. Patrick is the longest serving Director on the Board and have been involved in all our growth and transformation to where we are now, a major player in alleviating hunger. None of our Boards of Directors have been dysfunctional and we've had many good people involved over the years, resulting in the present strong organization. That being said, it is Patrick's opinion that the present Board is the strongest, hardest working and most capable I have been on. Patrick had considered retiring but the issues of the last year, particularly Covid and Quest's response to it caused him to change his mind. Patrick says "I believe I can contribute to the process with this strong and focused group."

Marilyn Bergen – President or Director at Large

Marilyn Bergen is currently the Board President for Quest and has served on the Board since 2011. Marilyn believes in the vision of Quest Outreach Society to provide a healthy shopping experience for people in our society who need a hand up during difficult times. After ten years as a director including at large, Secretary and now as the current President of the Board, she is deeply committed to the leadership of Quest and the impact in the communities we service.

Marilyn recently retired with over 25 years experience in food distribution, including roles as purchaser, supply chain management, and Director of Marketing and Procurement with one of the largest food service distributors in Canada.

Peter Brasso – Director at Large

Peter Brasso has been a Director of Quest since 2007 and was President from 2008 to 2018. He works in the car business, as CEO of the BPL Auto Group since 2000. BPL owns and operates three car dealerships in Greater Vancouver - Richmond Honda, Surrey Honda and Richmond Acura – employing over two hundred people. During Peter's time with Quest, BPL has contributed over $400,000 to Quest to support its transportation needs. In 2020, Peter was one of five national shortlisted nominees for the Canadian Auto Dealer "Dealer Laureate" award. Peter is also a long time Director and Past President of the Richmond Auto Mall Association and the B.C. Honda Dealers Ad Association.

Before the car business, Peter was a corporate lawyer and internet entrepreneur. Peter has coached his kids' soccer teams with Vancouver United Football Club for the past ten years. Peter lives in Vancouver with his wife, two kids and dog Mimi.
